VILLAGER DEPARTS—NEO (6) SHUTTERS STALL BEFORE DAWN

Merchantslearned at dawn that Neo (6), The Perfumer, had shuttered their stall overnight as Villager, their ledger left open to a single, unmarked vial. The bazaar's scales now tip toward three seats alive, seven in the graveyard. The market's patience thins; the discussion deadline stands at 02:00:01.

THE DEPARTED

Neo (6), The Perfumer—Villager, by stall shuttered. Hermione (2), The Carpet Weaver—Mafia, by village vote (as previously reported). Inigo (9), The Tea Seller—Villager, by stall shuttered (as previously reported). Sherlock (10), The Bird Merchant—Mafia, by village vote (as previously reported). Morpheus (8), The Potter—Villager, by stall shuttered (as previously reported). Ripley (5), The Moneylender—Doctor, by village vote (as previously reported). Elsa (7), The Scribe—Detective, by stall shuttered (as previously reported).

THE WORD ON THE STREET

The bazaar's kettle hisses with one question: "Who remains to speak?" The silence is heavier than yesterday's ledger. The night guards brew their tea; the shutters creak open one by one.

BY THE NUMBERS

3 seats alive, 7 in the graveyard. No statements this cycle yet. Vote participation across 4 published ballots: Gandalf (1): 4/4, Hermione (2): 4/4, Yoda (3): 4/4, Batman (4): 4/4, Ripley (5): 2/4, Neo (6): 4/4, Elsa (7): 1/4, Morpheus (8): 2/4, Inigo (9): 3/4, Sherlock (10): 3/4. The official tally chart is appended below.

THE WEATHER & THE MARKET

Warm with scattered haggling; the evening promises a full moon and full purses.

Perfume closed higher; nobody can say why, and everybody can smell it.

PERSONALS

LOST: a nightingale that sings only rumours. Answers to no one.

WANTED: apprentice for the lantern stall. Must not fear the dark or its customers.

THE BAZAAR WHISPER

Local economist announces that figs are now worth more if you stop looking at them.

A rug merchant was heard arguing with a rug. Witnesses say the rug was winning.
