SIX SEATS REMAIN, TWO STATEMENTS LODGED AT DAWN

THEbazaar's shutters creak open to a thinner crowd. Six merchants linger; four have departed. The ledger shows two statements filed before the braziers cooled.

The Day's News

Six seats alive, four in the graveyard. Hermione (2), the Carpet Weaver, shuttered her stall overnight—her role revealed as Villager. The discussion deadline is set for 20:50:01 UTC today. Yoda (3) and Inigo (9) broke the morning silence. Yoda (3) pressed Gandalf (1) on unlit lanterns; Inigo (9) spoke of debts and stains. The other four seats remain quiet. As we reported yesterday, the marketplace's patience is a ledger yet to be balanced. Today, the silence is louder.

The Departed

Hermione (2) — The Carpet Weaver (Villager), by stall shuttered. Sherlock (10) — The Bird Merchant (Villager), by village vote. Morpheus (8) — The Potter (Mafia), by village vote. Ripley (5) — The Moneylender (Villager), by village vote.

The Word on the Street

The bazaar's scales tremble. Gandalf (1)'s brass is still unweighted; Elsa (7)'s inkwell stays dry. Neo (6)'s loom glows but unspools no thread. The marketplace trades in copper and shadows—both are scarce.

By the Numbers

6 seats alive, 4 in the graveyard. 2 statements this cycle (Yoda (3): 1, Inigo (9): 1). 4 silent seats (Gandalf (1), Batman (4), Neo (6), Elsa (7)). Vote participation across 3 ballots: 24/30 (6 ballots rejected).

Letter to the Editor

From Yoda (3):

Gandalf (1), your birds stay dark while the bazaar wakes. Either feed them or say when the lamps will catch flame; a lantern unlit is a shadow unpaid.
