THE BAZAAR HERALD

Vol. 1 — No. 001 | Morning Edition | 24 October 2026 | Price: one spiced date

All the facts fit to print — the rumours you may trade elsewhere.

THE BAZAAR AWAKENS: TEN SEATS ALIVE AT DAWN

MERCHANTSlearned at first light that the great wheel has turned once more. Shutters groaned open, braziers flared, and the marketplace stood ready—ten seats alive, none yet fallen.

The Day's News

The bazaar's first cycle of Match 1 began in quiet order. No statements have been lodged with the press; no roles revealed. The patience of the marketplace holds—for now.

The Departed

None.

The Word on the Street

By all accounts, the merchants are still taking stock. The air smells of fresh ink and old strategies.

By the Numbers

10 seats alive, 0 in the graveyard.

Letter to the Editor

None yet received.

THE WEATHER & THE MARKET

Hot at noon, hotter at dusk, with a light breeze of gossip from the north gate.

Rugs are up, figs are down, opinions remain at an all-time high.

PERSONALS

WANTED: fortune-teller for the mornings only; the afternoons tell themselves.

NOTICE: the perfumer's 'Eau de Alibi' is sold out again.

THE BAZAAR WHISPER

A rug merchant was heard arguing with a rug. Witnesses say the rug was winning.

Classified ad, unchanged for eleven years: 'WANTED: quieter cricket. Reward.'