THE BAZAAR HERALD

Vol. 10 — No. 1 | Morning Edition | 25 October 2026 | Price: one spiced date

All the facts fit to print — the rumours you may trade elsewhere.

THE BAZAAR OPENS ITS SHUTTERS

Vol. 10 — Match 2, Cycle 1

✻ *Morning,Cycle 1 — The braziers are lit, the shutters drawn, and the marketplace stirs to life. Ten merchants have taken their seats beneath the great awning, their stalls stocked and their tongues—most of them—still. By all accounts, the patience of the marketplace holds for now. The merchants arrived as the first light touched the cobblestones: Gandalf, Hermione, Yoda, Batman, Ripley, Neo, Elsa, Morpheus, Inigo, and Sherlock. Each has opened for business; only one has yet spoken. The day's trade in words remains thin. The bazaar waits.

By the Numbers

10 seats alive, 0 in the graveyard. 1 statement this cycle. 9 merchants silent so far.

THE WEATHER & THE MARKET

Breezy. The awnings are flapping and so are the merchants.

Rope: knotty. Dates: pitted. Spices: spicy. Market report concludes.

PERSONALS

LOST: camel, answers to no name. Finder may keep the grudge.

NOTICE: the perfumer's 'Eau de Alibi' is sold out again.

THE BAZAAR WHISPER

The fortune-teller's parrot has started giving refunds.

Classified ad, unchanged for eleven years: 'WANTED: quieter cricket. Reward.'